At last! The shooting of this box office bonanza begins. The stage is set as the stars of Woodward High School prepare to perform in the story that has to be told.

Laughing, crying, and smiling are all essential elements in this show of shows. Watch closely now as the plot unfolds. It may twist and turn, careen and confuse, dazzle and delight, but it will always entertain. There can be no doubt, this one truly has it all ...

Senior Success Created By The Best

It's time for take off. The date is September 16, 1984; the beginning of a new school year. Captain Vicki Kissoft is in command with an adjoining crew of five co-pilots. Building fond memories that can be cherished and looked back upon as being some of the greatest times is their goal. Confronted with a job that is very demanding, they are faced with a busy itinerary and a bulging passenger list of 267 potential graduates. Uniquely planning and organizing various activities such as the great Hawaiian Luau, Homecoming, holiday parties, prom, and last, but not least, graduation is a heavy load which demands excessive amounts of time and effort. June 14, 1985 is the date for landing. All passengers and the crew will depart with the knowledge and the sense of accomplishment. Appreciation will be extended to the captain and copilots for the creativity they put into constructing a great journey, a great senior year

"We're Not Kids Anymore . . . "

President Georgette Belair

Secretary Michelle Pinski

Treasurer Renee Dickson

"Hey Woodward, we're not kids anymore," the Sophomores seem to be saying this year. The Class of 1987 has made leaps and bounds in winning activities. With their first place showings in the homecoming float and spirit link competitions, they've let it be known that they're not playing around! The Sophomores should be proud of the school spirit they have accumulated in their two years at WHS. If they continue with this school euphoria, they could be considered the pride of Woodward. Way to go '87!

The Winning Team

Woodward has many people unknown to the majority of the students. But, for the knowing few, this network of people is very appreciated

These people are the teacher aides, cafeteria workers, custodians, hali monitors, and secretaries. These people are the backbone of our school. Whether it be the teacher aides grading papers, the cafeteria workers providing us with lunch, the custodians keeping Woodward clean, the hall monitors keeping the halis clear of weary students, or the secretaries keeping our files in order, this work has a great impact on our school life. Without them we would be lost. Their work is keeping the Woodward team on top.

Fanciful Five

Exciting, suspenseful, and exhausting are just a few words describing five glorious days, September 24th through the 28th, marking Homecoming Week. A colorful Senior luau and a homeroom door decorating contest on Monday set the week in motion. Tuesday was filled with plenty of sweet treats as a bake sale was held. Junior and Senior girls battled one another Wednesday in the annual Powderpuff Football Game. Fans saw the mighty Juniors prevail with a 28-14 victory Spirits were dampened Thursday as rain cancelled the fourth annual bonfire. The most awaited day, Friday, was loaded with activities and fun for all. The pep raily gave us the results of the spirit link competition, won by the Sophomores, the door decorating contest, won by Mr McMurray's first hour, and most importantly our Homecoming queen and court. The band, floats, cheerleaders, and court entertained during the parade and football game. Even though our devoted team was not tnumphant, spirits were lifted at the dance later that evening

Building a float takes a great deal of time and requires work from energetic and willing students. Preparation and organization are essential. The officers and advisors of classes work within the boundaries of the theme and look for clever ways to portray it. Their finished products reflect the talents of many students and this dedication

This year the classes used the theme "Election Year." After many weeks of bragging and boasting, the final ballot was cast in the float competition, By unanimous decision, the stupendous Sophomore class beat all others with their winning entry. The joyful Juniors, with a well constructed float, succeeded in receiving second place. Disappointed with the election outcome, but still pleased with their product, the sophisticated Seniors gained third place. The frisky Freshmen made a gallant effort, but only managed a fourth place finish

TATTLER Tells A Tale

From "Would You Believe?" and "What If...?" to "Roving Reporter" and "Sports to Spectate," the TATTLER staff gives the student body stories hot off the presses. For the past fifty-seven years, the newspaper has been informing Woodwardites about books, movies, timely topics, and school activities. Comprised of twenty-five students, the staff reports on events, takes pictures, types and pastes copy, and sends layouts to the printer. Final editions are circulated throughout the school

Because the Band is recognized as the best in the area, their 107 members are constantly in demand. Playing at many events, they performed fashionably in their new uniforms

Striving for perfection, the band played for both Secretary of Education Bell and Vice President Bush in their visits to Toledo. Their bustling year was highlighted with performances at City League All Star Football Game, the East Toledo Christmas Parade, where they won a trophy for outstanding performance, World Cup Wrestling, the Memorial Day Parade, Christmas, winter, and spring concerts, and numerous community events.

Majorettes and Flags Give

Whether it's a halftime, pep raily, parade, or community event, the Majorettes and Flag Corps dazzle their audience with the things that Grand Champions are made of

This summer at Ball State University, both groups sparkled as they gave a performance that was awarded the title of Grand Champions. Among other awards earned by the majorettes were thirteen superior, eleven excellent, and two All-Star ribbons, Miss Majorette, and Miss Majorette First Runner-Up. The Flag Corps did equally as well. Besides being named Grand Champions, they won nine superior and two excellent ribbons, an individual medal, and a blue ribbon for home routine

With a style unsurpassed by any others, these twirlers show off the abilities they've obtained from hard work and dedication, much to the enjoyment of their audience.

Anything from the most traditional overture to the most popular tune is skillfully performed by the harmonious voices at Woodward, Although small in number, the Choir is certainly a big hit in everyone's heart. Touring the area performing at shopping malls, junior high schools, and right here at home, the choir tnes to build respect for a talent that is often ignored. The debut by the group was the Christmas Concert held for the student body in the final selection, everyone was thrilled when they accompanied the choir in "Deck the Halls!" In Mrs. Friedman's first year as director, she displays her talents working to establish the group as one of the better choirs in the city. She anticipates greater awareness of the vocal music program and looks forward to an increased enrollment next year

Striving For Perfection

"You can't judge a book by its cover" is one cliche' that the cheerleaders find a lot of truth in. Many people sarcastically think cheerleading is just part of the glamourous life, but a group of girls wearing blue and white can tell you that many hours are spent practicing, fund raising, participating in social events, and yelling. It all starts in the spring after tryouts and doesn't end until the beginning of the next spring.

During the summer, the cheerleaders attend a camp or a clinic which requires much time for practice and preparation. These sessions help in several ways. They present new cheers and chants, discuss motivational strategies for the upcoming sport seasons, and they plan activities geared toward improving skills and techniques, which is the most important key to making a better squad. The squads are not completely perfect, but they are indeed striving for perfection

POWER VOLLEYBALL

Bump! Set! Spike! Block! Putting these terms into action, our volleyball teams worked to perfect their style. Under the direction of Head Coach Sandy Clark and Junior Varsity Coach Rose Alired, the Polar Bears fought to hold their own in the Red Division. With an 11 11 Varsity record and a 2-20 Junior Varsity tally, the young Bears look forward to next season as only five seniors are graduating. At the Fall Sports Banquet held in November. these players received special awards for their contributions to the team and Ann Groch was named Most Valuable Player

A "NATURAL"

Coaches Mr. Andrew Toth - Mr. Fred Cieslewski

With the baseball movie, "The Natural," helping rekindle the popularity of the sport, Woodward's baseball coaches, Mr. Cieslewski and Mr. Toth, reflect on their accomplishments. "Fifteen consecutive winning seasons, two major league players, and even more, coaching youngsters makes the time spent well worthwhile," said Mr. Cieslewski, "but we are especially happy when one of our former players stops and tells us how well he is doing. The self-discipline needed to be a good baseball player is also needed to be a good citizen and when one of our former players is successful in life, we find great satisfaction in knowing that we have done our part. In a sense, playing baseball is preparing for life."
